"Who's Your Tailor?"

At the sign of
Ye Jolly Little Tailor

Why have your winter tailoring done now?

In the first place, there is a monetary advantage, because—the supply of really good woollens is falling short of the demand, and the Autumn's season's business already promises to be the largest in the history of the tailoring industry.

Our celebrated wholesale Merchant Tailors

have sent us a wonderful line of imported and domestic woollens, together with authoritative designs of fashionable models for Autumn and Winter. These should further emphasize the advantage of making selections now, even if you do not wish delivery until much later.

Earl Sweet, former Pastor of the Methodist Church of Wolcott.

Senator Vilas of Burlington, gave a splendid address at the evening service to a fair sized audience. His arguments were so strong and convincing against the League of Nations in its present form that many persons were led to change their opinions regarding this important document.

The Epworth League service last Sunday evening was led by G. S. Stancliff who conducted an old fashioned class meeting in a very acceptable manner.

There will be preaching service this evening at the home of Herman Eaton on West Hill.

"When the Circus Comes to Town"

As these seasons pass, our peaceful village witnesses many remarkable occasions, but in all its history nothing more marvelous has been recorded than the event which transpired last Wednesday evening. This event, which was heralded as the Real Circus, took place on the lawn of the Powers residence at the corner of Congress and Union streets, and long before the opening hour restless throngs were crowding about the ticket booth, beneath the flaunting red and white banner which marked the entrance.

They were all there—the man of the world and the lady of fashion—the dapper youth in white flannels and the small boy in bare legs—the toothless grandparent and the teething baby—for everybody loves a circus and the advertising had been thorough, culminating at noon in a grand parade in which jaunty military ladies and lovely baroque riders vied with strange freaks, while a jazz band blared ahead and ridiculous clowns frolicked alongside.

Promptly at seven-thirty the doors opened. The crowd poured in, and hypnotized by the patter of the charming "barkers," spent its pennies freely. There were plenty of ways to do it. First, one must be fortified by a bag of homemade candy and another of peanuts, and a glass of pink lemonade, as everyone knows, is absolutely necessary to your earnest circus-goer. Then there were the side shows, and after viewing the Siamese Twins and the trained bear, having one's fortune told by a beautiful gypsy maiden, spinning the roulette wheel, and taking a timorous peek at the ferocious man-eating tiger—who seemed to be having one of his calmer moments when we saw him—one could always go back and try once more to "hit the nigger in the eye." The reward for success in this effort was a free ride in the "elevator," upon which we should advise the inventor to get a patent before some one steals the idea. Then there was the Chinese Laundry, and Viola and Vivian—sweet antitheses—and when one was tired of roving there was the cool veranda where pretty dancing-girls glided about in graceful measures.

Our old friends Hanks and Marier missed the stage from Lost Nation, and had to walk most of the way in, but got there, by heck! with the old umbrella and palm-leaf fan, in time to take in the sights with the rest of the young folks! They sure did have a good time—and so did everybody else.

The Girls' Club, which was responsible for the affair, wishes through these columns to express its appreciation of the generous patronage accorded by the public. The net profits were about $65.00.

Robert W. Eaton, who has a fine position as salesman for a large financial firm in Boston, is spending a couple of weeks with his wife and son here.

Taylor-Ainsworth

Last week Wednesday at the Congregational parsonage in Montpelier occurred the marriage of Miss Katie Edith Ainsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi N. Ainsworth of that city and Clarence W. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Taylor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles N. St. John.

The groom has spent nearly his whole life in Morrisville where he has many friends and was discharged from nearly two years honorable service in the 26th division overseas and resumed his former position with S. L. Ring and Son, ice dealers, last spring.

The bride is a native of Calais but has lived many years in Montpelier, where she is highly esteemed.

Congratulations and best wishes are in order.

Don't forget—no pay, no paper.

Mark Your Clothing With Name Tapes

We are agents for "Cash's Woven Names", the neatest and best way for marking underclothes, etc. Far preferable to marking ink. Leave your orders early, as it takes a few days to get them.
